STACKABLE GETS
90 DAYS LEAVE

Has More Time Than Asked
To Go To Spain
For Labor

NO ATTEMPT TO BE MADE TO SECURE ITALIANS

GOVERNMENT OF ITALY IS NOT FAVORABLY DISPOSED TO WARD EMIGRATION
OF LABORERS

"It appears that the extension of the leave of absence granted Stackable was for ninety days and not thirty days," said E. D. Tenney of the Board of Immigration this morning. "An eighty days was all that Stackable asked for. I expect that he will presumably go to Spain and handle the proposition of a shipment of immigrants from that country."

When Stackable had first reported in favor of Spanish labor, and the Board of Immigration had decided to get a shipment, if possible, Stackable reported that he would have to have his leave of absence, which would expire on Feb. 15, extended for sixty days to enable him to handle the matter. His superiors in Washington were accordingly asked to grant this, and their response, in not only granting the request but in adding thirty extra days to the time desired, would seem to indicate a strong sympathy in Washington for the work which is being carried on by the Board.

Tenney was asked what had been the nature of Stackable's report in regard to his investigations of the labor market in Italy. He answered that Stackable had reported that the Italian Government was opposed to the scheme of getting immigrants from that country, and that the plan of getting Italians had therefore been given up. It appeared that the Government was generally opposed to emigration of the population. It was true that great numbers of Italians emigrated to the mainland, but cheap steerage fares and the fact that this was an old and established channel of emigration made it hard to prevent it. On the other hand, with Hawaii it meant a long journey and an entirely new proposition, which might be disregarded by the Italian Government. Under these circumstances the Board had thought it best not to make any attempt in that line.

Another member of the Board expressed his opinion that Hawaii would

KEALOHA AGAINST
GAUCUS OF ELECT

Wants No Business Done
Except At Regular Session

While the supervisors-elect are slated to hold another caucus tomorrow evening after the meeting of the present Board, it is very doubtful that anything will be done in the matter of deciding upon who shall be the chairman of the new Board, which is presumably the main cause for the caucus.

In an interview on Monday afternoon, Kendra said that as a servant of the people who offered him to office, he believed that all questions which came up before the Board of Supervisors should be discussed openly at its regular meeting times and not in a caucus. "Certainly I was not in that caucus which met to discuss the chairmanship of our new Board, which meets in January, nor have I discussed the question of the Board of Supervision which is now being enjoyed by Sam Johnson. The whole thing is that I was not notified to be present at the first caucus until the last moment. I don't believe in discussing any question at a time other than the regular meeting and I certainly object most strenuously to sit in a caucus behind closed doors. My opinion is that after the election of any member to the Board of Supervisors it becomes his duty to come right in an open meeting and express his opinion without fear or compunction, and to vote for whomsoever he wants for Chairman, Road Supervisor or any other position which might be brought to our attention. You know if I allow myself to sit in a caucus and especially behind closed doors, the people will begin to have suspicions regarding my honesty, and therefore they will be bothering me. Naturally the natives especially would think that I am not doing what is right by them, and some of them would even think that I am the bait of the baits. I have nothing to say as to how I will vote for Chairman and Road Supervisor, but I will let you all know when the time comes on January 5th. I heard that Frank Harvey is not in favor of

By Advertising a merchant cultivates his field instead of merely scratching it. His returns do not come from the sparse and accidental growth, but from the thorough tilling of the soil and an expert knowledge in making one crop succeed another. Every time he advertises in the EVENING BULLETIN he is planting the seed and watering the soil, and the growth is quick and the HARVEST CERTAIN.

MISSIONARY BARTON
ARRIVES TOMORROW

Secretary of Am. Board
Will Be Royally
Received

WILL INVESTIGATE NEW CONDITIONS IN CHINA

HAWAIIAN BOARD WILL TAKE HIM ABOUT TOWN AND HAVE RECEPTION AT KAWAIHAOA

The Hawaiian Board of Missions is preparing a grand reception for Rev. Jas. L. Barton, the secretary of the American Board, who is expected to arrive in the Mongolian tomorrow. Barton is on his way to China, representing the Board, which has its head-quarters in Boston; his object being to study the new conditions which have been created there by the Russo-Japanese war and other political changes. Barton was himself active in the missionary field in Turkey, before he was called to Boston.

A party of fourteen or fifteen members of the Hawaiian Board will meet the distinguished visitor at the dock and will escort him to the Pali and about town seeing the sights. He and the members of the party, as well as representatives of the old Hawaiian missionary families, will be entertained at luncheon by P. C. Jones at his Kuaiki road residence, whereafter the afternoon will be occupied with a drive around the city.

In the evening a grand reception will be given him at Kawaihaoa church, at which all the five nationalities among which the Board works, will be represented. The following program has been prepared for the occasion:

Grand International Rally of Well-wishers to come to Rev. James L. Barton, D.D., Foreign Secretary of American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions,

WILL PASS BILL

PARIS, France, Dec. 26.—A vote in the Senate indicates the passage of the intention of carrying off the water, which might rise up against the shoring embankment in front of it.

The storm, according to Patterson, showed that the precautions taken were far from sufficient. The first thing the rising waters did was to carry away the overflow baffle, which was demolished.

The water then proceeded to crush down the sloping embankment in front of the outer wall. It carried away about one-third of this great mass of earth, took it over the wall and deposited it in the space between it and the core wall. It also swept into the same place a large amount of grass roots and other debris which had been filled up on the sides of the gulch. This mass of earth and wreckage filled a great part of the space and covered the embankment, so that only the smokestacks protruded above it. As the pumps could therefore not be used and the flame had carried away, a trench had to be cut to carry the water away.

In the meantime the front wall had been unable to withstand the force of the rushing water. It was knocked over and now leans drunkenly at an angle. "I am told by an engineer," remarked Patterson, "that if the water had risen five inches more, the core wall would have gone."

Patterson says further that it will take two months to clear the debris away. The Territory and not the contractor will be the sufferer. The ar-
